LUND TRIVIA

Harald Bluetooth was a Scandinavian king who lived around 985. Bluetooth may have had a 'conspicuous bad tooth'. The Bluetooth communications protocol in these devices is named after him, because of the unification of Denmark and Norway (in a communication protocol). His son Sweyn Forkbeard is possibly buried in the Lund cathedral. [Wikipedia]

EVENTS TODAY

Conference Photo

The conference photo will be taken during the morning coffee break, after the first Plenary session.

No conference lunch today

No lunch is served today due to the social programme, but a list of suggested lunch places is on the registration board and on indico.

VISIT TO KULTUREN/CATHEDRAL

There will be a guided visit of the cathedral and of Kulturen, the museum of Swedish traditions and houses. Kulturen is Sweden's second oldest open-air museum. Its goal is to preserve buildings, tools, furniture and clothes of the old farming society. Meet Katja, Oxana, Torbjorn and Ulf in front of either Kulturen (see link) or the Cathedral at 14:00 - check your ticket, or ask the registration/local organizers.

FOOTBALL TOURNAMENT

We will have a friendly football tournament (with prize for the best team), on the "Smörlyckans idrottsplats" field between 14:00 - 16:00. There are two changing rooms with showers reserved for the event.

Either come directly to the football field, or meet Caterina and Balasz in front of the AF building at 13:45 and take bus #2 or #4 to the football field, stop Smörlyckans. Note: wear your conference badge for free public transport!

Everybody is welcome to join and / or support!

VISIT TO ESS

There will be a visit of the building site of the European Spallation Source (ESS), The ESS is a multidisciplinary research centre based on the world's most powerful neutron source. The visit involves overview talks and a guided bus tour of the construction site. Meet Gösta, Hans, Martin and Trine in front of the AF building at 14:00 to take the bus. Note that this visit can only be joined if it had been specified in advance in the registration form.
